Tempe," and was a prize fighter who had whipped all comers in the lightweight class in the boxing clubs of the How to Get Fourth Ward.

"The Kid" stepped from a Third avenue elevated train, bound uptown, at Twenty-eighth street, about 7 o'clock. Two men had been waiting on the stairs for more than an hour. John A Remarkable Discovery That Cau Daly, a cripple, who sells lead pencils under the stairs, had been watching them and thought they were waiting for some girls.

Story of the Murder.

"I saw 'The Kid' come from the ele-vated train,' Daly said later in telling his story to the police. "He was not boking at the two men on the stairs when he started down. They suddenly closed in on him and began jabbing at him with long knives. I saw 'The Kid' fall. The two men then rushed past me, and I hit at one of them with my crutches. One ran to Twentyeighth street and turned into the hall way of a tenement-house near St. Stephen's Churen. The other man ran down anird a enue."

"The Kid," biceding from his wounds, staggered on down the steps, and fell at the foot of the stairs, dying aimost instantly.

The ambulance surgeon had hardly unloaded the dead prize-fighter when there was a terephone call. A voice on the other end of the wire said: "Send an amoutance to Avenue A, at Twenty-third street, and send it quick!"

Charge whatever for thirty years and was the only commander who ever got out of the Fifth street station with a clean record.

"I have no wish to dispute the good record of this officer." said the Commissioner. "I concede that his record shows mm to be a good policeman. I wish he had not brought a lawyer here. Policemen should realize by this time that a lawyer is not necessary to get it for them. I am disposed to be more lenient with a policeman who appears been on his own ground and makes his defense man fashioin without any legal quibbling.

"Kid Tempe" Killed.

The first signs of new trouble developed a few nights ago, when one member of the gang sneaked up to another at Chatham Square and shot at him four times. It was predicted then that the police would have work before them and that undertakers would be kept busy in the near future.

Thomas Teramo, twenty-one, of No. 84 Catharine street, was the first of the gangsters to meet death in the new feud. Teramo was best known as "Kid Tempe," and was a prize fighter who
